

The Leader as A Lifelong Learner

Mark W. Gregory, PhD

Professor of Old Testament

The Leader as a Lifelong Learner

Benefits

Change and Adaptability
Anticipating Trends
Maturing: Personal and Professional
Effectivity and Productivity
Increased Opportunities

Strategies

Formal
⇒ Structured Education
⇒ Process
⇒ Goals
⇒ Accreditation/recognition

Informal:
⇒ Self-Developed
⇒ Personal and Progressive ⇒ Variation
⇒ Self Paced

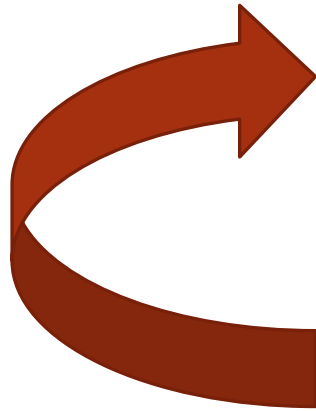

Experiential:
⇒ Active or Passive
⇒ Intuitive and Contextual
⇒ Low Level Learning, or ⇒ High Level Experience

Consequences

Longevity of Contributions
Relevant in Field
Impactful upon Others
Investment in Legacy

Results

Competency
Confidence
Comfort
Reward

Process

Identify areas of interest

Determine your outcome goals

- ▶ Realistic, Reachable, Stretchable

Develop a game plan

- ▶ Evaluate Personal Resources – temporal, financial, familial
- ▶ Evaluate Opportunities – formal, informal, experiential
- ▶ Consider Consequences – Interest benefit, contribution, legacy

Implement and act

- ▶ Persevere
- ▶ Gauge Effectiveness – and develop new strategy if needed

The Search...

Piedmont Divinity School: divinity.carolinau.edu

Mentors

Peers

Conferences

Professors

Pastors

Business Persons

Resources

Neuroplasticity and Language

Comprehensible Input – Steven Krashen

Ollie Richards

Chip Dodd

